1. Boarding the plane - there are people who linger deliberately thinking the plane won't leave without them
2. Flight attendants giving directions to your seat – it's an unnecessary preoccupation, each plane is pretty straightforward in its layout.
3. Passports - people keep checking if they still have the passports on them and they keep frisking themselves
4. Passport photos - most people are embarrassed about their passport photos and believe they look better in the flesh
5. Reclining seats - some people recline back to the maximum immediately after they've put the seatbelt on, which is very annoying
6. Plane food - it's revolting, the options are not always available

9. Travelators - it's a continuation of the race that started as soon as the plane landed
10. The zigzag ropes system and how different nationalities go through it when there is no queue
